

Cookie Policy

Our website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users of our website. This helps us to provide you with a good experience when you browse our website and also allows us to improve our site. A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that we store on your browser or the hard drive of your computer. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive. Certain features of our site depend upon cookies to function and are deemed, within the law, to be strictly necessary (essential cookies). You will not be asked for your consent to place these cookies however you may disable the cookies via your browser settings. The cookies we use are "analytical" cookies. They allow us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around the site when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way our website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily.

We use cookies to:

- Keep the website running as you'd expect (for example keeping you logged in as you browse different webpages)
- Remember which pages you like the best, so we can show you personalised content.
- Let you share things you like on your social networks.
- Store some of your details, such as your log in details (but only if you want us to!)

Cookies also help us evaluate our website. It gives us information on visitor levels, the device our visitors are using, pages people like the best, social network shares and how people have found us (search engines and links for example) helps us to make the website better for us and for you!

We will never use cookies to:

- Store your personal information (unless you want us to, e.g staff login details)
- Pass on your information to third parties.

Types of cookies and what we use each one for:

- First Party: These are cookies set by us and only usable by us. They are the ones that keep you logged in during a browsing session.
- Third Party: These are cookies set by third parties that we use. The only third party cookies we use are for evaluating our website (we use Google Analytics for this), and those that allow you to share things on your social media sites.
- Session Cookies: These are temporary cookies that are deleted when you close your browser. These are the ones that keep you logged in as you browse from page to page.
- Persistent Cookies: These are stored on your device for a fixed period of time. We use this to remember your preferences to show you personalised content and offers, as well as remembering your log in details for your next visit, if you specifically tell us you want us to.

If you still don't want us to use cookies, that's okay. Click here to work out How to disable cookies